Welcome to the FlyCay Teamspeak guide!

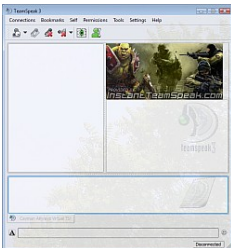

Firstly, TeamSpeak is a voice communications (voice comms) tool for real time voice chat over the internet. This is sometimes referred to as voice over IP. It is designed for gamers to be able to chat with each other while playing a game. This takes team based games to a whole new level as you are able to quickly issue orders and report incidents without having to stop and type your message.

Step 1 – Getting the Software

Visit the download page of the TeamSpeak website and follow the download link on the far right of the page. Assuming you are running a version of Microsoft Windows, you will want the TS3 Client (Win) link. TeamSpeak is completely freeware, so there is nothing to pay. Once the software has downloaded, run the executable and follow the installation instructions. Once it is installed it might be useful to place a shortcut on the desktop (if it hasn't already) or even on the 'Quick Launch' bar. This is entirely up to you.

Step 2 – Setting Up and Connecting to a Server

When you start TeamSpeak client, the following window will appear:

Right now you are not connected to a server, nor do you have any set up, so let's do this now. Click on Connections and select Connect.

The window (above) appears. All the details are empty just now. Add the Address 87.117.208.29 in the "Address" Box.

- In the "Port" box, add 4151.

- Select a nickname, [Your Name] - CAYXXX (Your Cayman PID). Example: Jason - CAY143

Never, ever join as Guest1 or a none "normal" name. IE - D3str0yer. You will more then likely get your IP banned indefinitely. Now, without a server password, click on the Connect Button at the bottom. Voila! You are now connected to our TeamSpeak server and should see something similar to this:

Bookmarks:

Now, select Bookmarks at the top. Click "Add to Bookmarks"

In Server Address, enter flycay.instantts.net

Click on Settings in the menu and select Sound Input/Output Settings.

The output volume slider should only be set to 1 or 2 notches above normal. If you set it too high, some of your clan mates may sound very crackly while others do not.

Also, select Push to Talk and choose a key by clicking the Set button then pressing the key on your keyboard you want to be your talk button.

While voice activation works well enough, people either set the threshold too low or it activates because of ambient sound causing constant transmission. This is especially true if you are using speakers rather than headphones when you play your game.

Constant transmission is bad, because it means you usually can't hear other people talking.
